So What is Fair Trade?

It's supporting artisans from impoverished communities in disadvantaged countries. These co-ops produce high quality products in a protected environment with no slave or child labor. They are paid fair wages and observe gender equality while producing goods in an environmentally safe way. This help and hope allows them to provide food, shelter, education and health care for their families.

We, as conscientious consumers, can promote this economic growth and economic justice by buying these Fair Trade items.

There is a lot more to fair trade than just coffee and chocolate. You will find jewelry, clothing, scarves and much more.

This year, come to the Fair Trade Bazaar, bring your friends, and let your money improve lives through a sustainable economic system.
